A message for RNAO leaders

Thank you for taking on a leadership role with RNAO. We are so grateful for your dedication to your professional association.

As an association leader, you will draw on your knowledge and expertise to shape the health system's future, and build a better career for registered nurses (RN), nurse practitioners (NP) and nursing students in Ontario. Your efforts will also have a positive impact on the people of Ontario and around the world.

As an RN, NP or nursing student, you are already a leader in your community. This manual will provide you with tools to build on your leadership skills, and guide you in your new role.

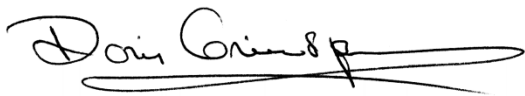

We extend special thanks to past leaders and RNAO staff who have provided the material for this edition of the manual.

Congratulations on taking this important step in your career. Your commitment strengthens RNAO's voice to speak out for nurses and speak out for health.

Warmest regards,

Angela Cooper Brathwaite, RN, MN, PhD
President

Doris Grinspun, RN, MSN, PhD, LLD(hon), Dr(hc), FAAN, O.ONT.

Mission Statement, Values and ENDS

Mission Statement

We are the professional body representing registered nurses, nurse practitioners and nursing students in Ontario. We advocate for healthy public policy, promote excellence in nursing practice, and empower nurses to actively influence and shape decisions that affect the profession and the public they serve.

Values

We believe health is a resource for everyday living and that health care is a universal human right. We respect human dignity and are committed to diversity, inclusivity, equity, social justice, and democracy. We believe the leadership of every nurse advances individual and collective health.

ENDS

RNAO's ENDS articulate the purpose and explain why the world is a better place because of the organization's work. The ENDS are divided into four areas of action and are used to define how the organization, through its membership, advocacy and knowledge transfer, delivers its mission and values.

- END 1: Engage with registered nurses, nurse practitioners and nursing students to stimulate membership and promote the value of belonging to their professional organization.
- END 2: Advance the role and image of nurses as members of a vital, knowledge-driven, caring profession, and as significant contributors to health.
- END 3: Speak out on emerging issues that impact on nurses and the nursing profession, health and health care.
- END 4: Influence healthy public policy to positively impact the determinants of health, supporting medicare and strengthening a publicly funded, not-for-profit health-care system.

Organizational Statement on Diversity and Inclusivity

In keeping with the RNAO's mission, we are committed to providing an environment that is free from racism, prejudice, discrimination, and harassment. We strive to reflect diverse communities within our organizational structure (board, staff, members and students) and to promote equitable access to the programs and services we offer.

The RNAO will ensure:

- policies and protocols, programs and services eliminate systemic barriers, and promote positive inclusive relations
- understanding and mutual acceptance of diversity among its board, staff, members and students
- whenever possible, the board, staff, members and students reflect the diversity of the community it serves
- fairness and equity in all of its operations, including access to employment opportunities and program and service delivery
- board, staff, members, students and communities, as well as its affiliates in the province, understand and promote the Diversity and Inclusivity Statement and the Human Rights Code

Members elect representatives to RNAO to direct the organization, both locally and province-wide. The RNAO board of directors, illustrated here in blue, represents the governing body of the association.

The RNAO assembly, shown in purple, includes both the board of directors together with chapter presidents, assembly representatives from regions without chapters, and interest group chairs.

The assembly meets twice a year and receives Members' Voices reports about the work of all chapter and interest group executives, shown in orange.

Together the board of directors, the assembly, and chapter and interest group executives lead the association in speaking out for nursing and speaking out for health.

About RNAO's Executive Network Structure

RNAO is led by registered nurses, nurse practitioners and nursing students across Ontario. To help support members involved in speaking out for nursing and speaking out for health, we have an executive network structure. This structure pairs executive members representing interest groups, chapters, and regions without chapters with resources and support from home office. The executive roles included in this structure are:

- President/Chair
- Communications Executive Network Officer
- Social Media Executive Network Officer
- Finance Executive Network Officer
- Membership Executive Network Officer
- Policy and Political Action Executive Network Officer
- Student Executive Network Officer (undergraduate)
- Workplace Liaison Executive Network Officer (chapters only)

For each of these positions, there is a designated RNAO staff resource person.

Chapter President or Interest Group Chair

As the leader of your group, you will be in frequent contact with home office and the rest of the executive and will guide the other executive member in their duties. In this section we'll talk about a few of the key areas of your work, including Members' Voices reporting, hosting productive meetings and recognizing excellence in the nursing community through nominations for RNAO Recognition Awards.

The most responsible person from each group is asked to participate in assembly meetings (held in February and September) and at RNAO's annual general meeting (AGM). Although you are giving your time, most expenses to attend can be reimbursed and this section includes the reimbursement policy for expenses associated with attending these meetings.

In order to stay on top of your role, please review the calendar of events presented at the beginning of the Leadership Manual. You will also need to take time to review your emails at least weekly – notices of meetings, teleconferences, accommodation deadlines and important updates are all sent by email and will require your attention and response.

Where to get support and answers about what to do:

- from others on your executive team
- this Leadership Manual
- online at MyRNAO.ca/volunteer
- your home office contact (see pages 19-21)

Hosting Productive Meetings – Sample Agenda

Your group will want to hold at least two membership meetings per year. Executive meetings should be held frequently. Executive meetings can be face-to-face or by teleconference or videoconference, depending on the needs of your group. A productive meeting needs an agenda ahead of time, and this can include:

- Call to order
- Roll Call or introductions of those participating
- Approving agenda as presented
- Approving minutes from any previous meeting
- Reports from executive network officers, including:
 - President or Chair
 - Communications
 - Finance
 - Membership
 - Policy and Political Action
 - Social Media and Information Technology
 - Student Liaison
 - Workplace Liaison (if applicable)
- Business from the previous meeting
- New Business (if any)
- Announcements
- Next Meeting Date
- Adjournment

Agenda items can be added or removed depending on the work of your group and the purpose of the meeting.

Developing and circulating an agenda ahead of time helps all participants to get ready to participate in the meeting. Some executive members may need guidance to prepare their report back to the group. Always refer to the chapter, region without chapters and interest group executive guidelines for the amount of notice that should be given for a meeting (30 days) and when to send the agenda to participants (no less than three days prior).

When developing your agenda and chairing, allow for enough time for each item, and try to start off with the 'easiest' items that can be dealt with quickly and without controversy, in order to set a positive tone.

Chairing a meeting is a learned skill, and an important part of your leadership development. Be conscious of trying to keep discussion productive, focused on the agenda, and encourage everyone present to participate. Minutes of the meeting are important as a record of what was decided by the group, and should include the date and time of the meeting, the participants, record of discussions, and the key action items – and who is responsible for each action. Meeting minutes can be filed with home office by email, where they will be saved and backed up.

Recognizing Excellence: RNAO Recognition Awards

The RNAO Recognition Awards are presented annually to recognize individuals and groups that make significant contributions to RNAO's mandate: Speaking out for nursing and speaking out for health.

The awards acknowledge contributions made by volunteers and long-time members within the association. They also foster excellence in the nursing profession and promote the profession to the public by highlighting the best of nursing practice, education, research, administration and policy. While most of the awards recognize individuals, there are also awards for interest groups, chapters, and regions without chapters, nursing schools and workplaces.

Current award categories are:

- Leadership Award in Nursing Administration
- Leadership Award in Nursing Education (Academic)
- Leadership Award in Nursing Education (Staff Development)
- Leadership Award in Nursing Research
- Leadership Award in Political Action
- Leadership Award in BPG Implementation
- Chapter of the Year Award
- Interest Group of the Year Award
- RNAO Promotion in a Nursing Program Award (recognizes a nursing school)
- Leadership Award in Student Mentorship
- Student of Distinction Award
- Lifetime Achievement Award
- Honoured Friend of Nursing
- Award of Merit
- RNAO in the Workplace Award (recognizes an organization that employs nurses)
- Workplace Liaison Award
- HUB Fellowship
- President's Award for Leadership in Clinical Nursing Practice

Nominations are held annually, opening in November with a deadline in January. The awards are presented at the AGM in the spring. To learn more about past winners or to download a nomination form, visit

<http://RNAO.ca/about/awards/recognition-awards>

Putting together a letter describing why a fellow member is worthy of recognition can be a wonderful opportunity to celebrate a fellow nurse, reflect on the work you do and to enrich your profession.

Members' Voices Reporting

Assembly members are required to report back to RNAO on their work, prior to each assembly meeting (typically twice per year). This takes the form of Members' Voices reports, and these reports are required for home office to release the groups' funding.

According to our policies, assembly members shall not fail to:

Report to RNAO's [Finance Department] by November 1st of each year, the fulfillment of RNAO Policies 7.03(1) (c) and 8.02(1) (c) related to a minimum of two communications and one membership meeting (face-to-face, audio or video conferencing) per year with all members. No funding will be transferred to those who have not reported. Non-compliance with these requirements by April 1 will result in withholding the full transfer of membership funds from RNAO to the deficient interest group, chapter, or region without chapters.

Your Members' Voices report on the work of your group is organized according to which ENDS it advances.

To learn more about the ENDS, please see the About the RNAO section at the beginning of this manual, or visit <http://RNAO.ca/about/mission>

Members' Voices reports can be completed online by following this link: <https://MyRNAO.ca/MembersVoices>

Any questions regarding these reports should be directed to Ifrah Ali, iali@RNAO.ca

Reimbursement policy for Board and Assembly Meetings

The association will reimburse eligible expenses associated with participating in board of directors meetings (BOD), assembly meetings, and AGM meetings.

Request for reimbursement must be made on the standard RNAO expense report, within 30 days of a meeting. Please attach all receipts for audit purposes.

What expense is eligible?

Board of Directors

Board member participants can be reimbursed for:

- Accommodation – a standard single hotel room for up to three nights where required.
- Travel – most economical
- Meals – daily maximum $45, and only where a meal is not provided

Chapter President or Interest Group (IG) Chair

- Accommodation – a shared standard hotel room for maximum one night – where required / or up to two nights for the combined assembly meeting and Queen's Park Day
- Travel – most economical
- Meals – one day, maximum $45, and only where a meal is not provided

Executive Network Officer (ENO)

One ENO or their alternate from a chapter or interest group executive

- Accommodation – a shared standard hotel room for maximum one night – where required
- Travel – most economical
- Meals – one day, maximum $45, and only where a meal is not provided

For mentoring or succession planning purposes, guests are welcome to attend IG Chairs and Chapter Presidents meetings as observers. However, their expenses are not covered by Home Office.

Ineligible Expenses

- Salary replacement and/or loss of salary are non-allowable expenses, as per the Board of Directors policy.
- Movies, alcohol, day care, travel cancellation insurance and items of a personal nature are non-allowable.
- Any claim for reimbursement to attend an individual interest group meeting must be made directly to the interest group.

RNAO's executive office reviews and approves all expense reports and reserves the right to disallow unreasonable/ineligible requests.

Long Service Awards: Quarter Century Club and RN Emeritus

Once a year, chapters are given a special opportunity to recognize long-serving members.

As chapter president, you will receive a package with certificates and special lapel pins to bestow upon those who have been regular members of the association. In 2019, we're introducing the 15 Year Honours for members who have been with the association for 15+ years. The official name of the award will be determined after members provide input. These members will receive a commemorative certificate. After 25 years, members receive admission into the Quarter Century Club and receive a pin and commemorative certificate, while after 40 years; members achieve the status of RN Emeritus and are recognized with a pin, a commemorative certificate and complimentary membership for the rest of their lives.

During the next chapter meeting, you are asked to present these pins and celebrate the contribution these members have made to our profession. Recipients often find it very meaningful to receive these honours from their chapter in the company of their peers.

The membership team will notify members that they have received these awards by mailing them a letter directly, along with a permanent membership card for RN Emeriti.

If you have questions about these awards, please contact Kenya Dames at kdames@RNAO.ca or 1-800-268-7199 ext. 201, or 416-599-1925 ext. 201.

Communications Executive Network Officer

As executive network officer (ENO) for communications, you help to spread the word about the association and your colleagues in nursing. Your efforts to engage the media and promote chapter or interest group events will go a long way towards ensuring nurses' voices are heard.

The volunteer area of MyRNAO has up-to-date information about your role, including the documents below. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact your home office resource, Jonathan Sher, at 416-408-5606 or jsher@RNAO.ca.

Photos are a great way to show off your chapter/interest group's work. Here's how to take the best possible snaps.

Finance Executive Network Officer

As Finance Executive Network Officer, your key responsibilities include:

- budgeting for your group's fiscal year (usually Nov. 1 to Oct. 31 of the following year)
- keeping records of all monies received and expended
- safekeeping the group's funds
- signing cheques for group expenses together with another authorized member of the executive
- report the group's finances to the rest of the executive at regular meetings
- report your group's activities and balance sheet annually to home office in collaboration with the President/Chair by using the online Members' Voices form. (No chapter funding is released until appropriate financial reporting has been submitted to RNAO)

Your home office contact, Kumudhini Thavaraj, is available as a resource for any questions you might have about budgeting, reporting, tax issues, investing, etc. There are also a series of documents and templates available for you at <https://MyRNAO.ca/content/finance-eno-information> (login required).

Funding for your group is provided through a refund account. This account has three purposes:

- to allow the region or chapter or interest group to provide services to members, such as communication, open forums to discuss nursing issues and educational sessions to promote professional growth
- to allow the chapter to promote activities which would increase the involvement and interest of members
- to allow chapters to initiate activity which would recruit new members

Guidelines for Use of the Refund Account

- The refund account covers all operating expenses of the group as approved by the executive committee and ratified by a general meeting of the members
- Affiliation fees related to other organizations may be a refund account expenditure
- Association funds that come mostly from membership fees should not be used for donations or gifts to other organizations
- Whenever possible, the provincial policy of financing conferences and workshops will apply to chapter and interest group conferences and workshops; namely that they be self-supporting. An additional practice has been to charge RNAO members a registration fee that is less than the fee charged to non-members
- Contributions may be made toward the expenses of an official delegate to attend educational workshops, providing a motion of the chapter executive committee approves such attendance

Things to Remember

- Chapter fiscal year runs Nov. 1 to Oct. 31, concurrent with home office membership year
- Home office advances funds to the chapters each year based on the number of members in each chapter. The first advance is sent approximately mid-January based on memberships recorded at that time; the balance (if any) of funding is sent by mid-October. No chapter funding is released until appropriate financial reporting has been submitted to RNAO
- Maintain a separate bank account for group funds. We suggest a chequing account with BOTH the Finance Officer and President designated as the signing officers. Signing officers (two) must be RNAO members in good standing
- Record expenditures in the logbook (record of expenses) provided by home office early in the membership year or in spreadsheet format on computer or simple ledger paper
- At the end of the year, send the logbook or other form of record keeping back to home office, as it is required for audit purposes. See Members' Voices submission example on page 26 to see where to attach record keeping documents
- All annual expenditures are to be recorded and receipts are to be kept. The record of expenses is to be returned to the Director of Finance and Administration at home office not later than Nov. 15 each year

Budgeting

Budgeting for chapter and interest group activities is no different from setting budgets in other areas of professional or personal activities. A budget is a reasonable estimate of the expected revenue and expenses for the year. The following guidelines will assist you and your executive to prepare a budget for each year's activities.

- The executive should give thought and discussion to the types of activities you want to accomplish over the year.
- Activities that are of interest to current and potential members will increase recruitment and retention and increase your financial resources – in turn generating additional resources to serve your local members even more!
- The chapter fiscal year runs concurrently with RNAO – Nov.1 to Oct. 31. Some interest groups have previously established year ends that are different from RNAO. Either is fine, however we suggest that new groups establish a fiscal year end concurrent with RNAO.
- Once you set the year's budget, stick to it! Sticking to the budget may mean making hard decisions. Unless revenue generated is more than anticipated you may have to say no to some projects if the money is not there. Chapters can apply for additional support for activities through the Regional Development Fund.
- If you deviate from the original budget, you should be able to justify your decision. For example, if revenue is higher than expected you may be able to send an extra newsletter. Or, if an expense comes in lower than originally budgeted, you may redirect the windfall to another project.
- Consider how much money is left over from last year and the timing of funding received from RNAO – first advance comes from RNAO in December or January due to our books being open for audit purposes.

- Revenue – consider all sources of revenue – including chapter funding, interest group fees and events.
- Chapter fees are calculated by multiplying last year’s total membership by the current funding allotted to chapters (presently $2 per member). An additional $4 per member is available by applying to the Regional Development Fund.
- Interest group fees are collected and remitted in full to interest groups. RNAO does not withhold, nor collect any administration fee for collecting and remitting interest group fees.
- Expenses are usually easier to quantify, but some research is required. For newsletters consider printing costs. Use last year’s costs if similar work is being done; or ask your printer for an estimate if you will be doing something different. Postage is a big expense and you need to consider size and weight of the packages being mailed, and the size and frequency of the mailing. More and more, chapters, regions without chapters and interest groups are using online newsletters and updates. Frequent updates by e-mail allow members to feel connected and this contributes to retention and consequently to you having more funds to invest in retention and recruitment activities.
- Try to get the budget for the largest expenditures accurate and make a best guesstimate about the smaller expenses.
- If you realistically project revenue and then get the three or four largest expenditures fairly accurate, you should have no trouble coming in on budget.

Bookkeeping

RNAO by-laws require chapters, regions without chapters and interest groups (IGs) to submit their financial records to the finance department at home office annually (by Nov. 30), and also, when asked to do so. Diligent record-keeping ensures integrity of the funds and provides a reliable picture of how money is received and spent. The following guidelines will assist you and your executive to prepare accurate financial records.

- Bookkeeping records can be kept on ledger paper, in a manual cash disbursements journal, in computer spreadsheets or accounting software.
- The books should be posted for each separate fiscal year – Nov. 1 to Oct. 31, or the interest group’s established fiscal year.
- The absolute minimum requirement is to keep the monthly bank statements neat and organized with cancelled cheques attached to the statement. If a passbook is kept for some bank accounts, it should be updated regularly.
- Some IGs with larger budgets have engaged outside accountants to prepare their accounting records and produce an annual financial statement. The cost for this service will vary.
- The simplest way to post the books is to record the transactions from the bank statements into some form of cash receipts and disbursements journal or spreadsheet. This can be done every few months or even once a year. Although, the executive committee will likely want to know where money has been spent more often than once per year.

- Once the banking activity has been transcribed onto the receipts and disbursements ledger, it's easy to periodically add up the columns to give a picture of how much money has been received and what categories it has been spent on.
- Receipts for expenditures should be kept neat and organized, either into the month spent or by category.
- Term deposits and GICs can be invested for a duration most suitable to the chapter or interest group activities. We recommend that investments be held in conservative, good quality instruments, avoiding high-risk investments.
- Final copy of receipts and disbursements ledger should be sent to home office soon after the year end or upon request.

Regional Development Funding for Chapters

The Finance Committee of the Board of Directors will be pleased to receive your chapter, region without chapter's application for Regional Development Funding. In addition to the basic funding of $2 per member, chapters/regions without chapters may apply for extra funding up to $4 per member for local initiatives.

New to Regional Development Funding: Assembly members and consultation representatives may approach their interest groups for potential coverage to apply for funding to assist in the reimbursement of Friday night accommodation to attend the AGM.

Should the Chapter or region without chapters not have sufficient funds, the assembly rep and/or consultation rep may apply for regional development funding.

Please keep these guidelines in mind when developing your project:

Initiatives should address issues in the RNAO strategic and operational plan:

- Political action, membership recruiting, partnerships and visibility of RNAO
- Events should not conflict with date/time/location of major RNAO events (like the RNAO AGM)
- Fiscal responsibility – a sound budget should be prepared for the project
- Consider whether money you already have on hand is being used to its full potential
- Have fun!

Membership Executive Network Officer (ENO)

As an executive network officer for membership and services, you help represent and grow your interest group (IG) or chapter or region without chapters, and provide information and connections to your own members.

Your Membership ENO Manual

Check out your full Membership ENO Manual for all the resources you'll need to become an expert in recruiting and retaining members.

Legal Supports

To help you understand the legal programs available to members, check out What's the Difference among Legal Programs?, a comparison of legal supports for nurses, specifically PLP, LAP, NurseInsure and ONA's LEAP.

Contacting Your Members

Home office can forward your group's communications – such as emails, newsletters, surveys and calls for nominations – to members of your group. Home office can provide assistance with sending postal mail if necessary. Check out home office mailing services for a review of the costs. Email is also a great option to contact members. Read our Mass Email Policy for a brief overview of what type of emails can be distributed to your members via home office.

Home office can also provide notification of meetings and online registration services for your group's meetings and events.

Recruitment Rewards

Those who recruit new members are rewarded under RNAO's Recruitment Rewards program.

Take advantage of Get 5 by recruiting five new RNs/NPs to join RNAO and receive your RNAO membership free for the next year.

For every RN or NP you sign up as a new RNAO member, earn a $20 RNAO gift certificate. For every undergraduate nursing student you recruit, earn $5. You will receive an email in the month of August if you have recruitment rewards waiting for you. Directions on how to redeem your rewards will be provided. Gift certificates can be used towards your membership fees or for registration for RNAO conferences and workshops. Rewards must be used before May 31.

We need to know who you have recruited in order to provide recruitment rewards. Make sure those you have recruited include your name and your RNAO number on their membership application. This is the only way to make sure you will get credit for bringing them on board. MyRNAO has the option of printing membership forms personalized with your name and number. You can provide this form in an email to a friend or colleague and ask them to join.

To count towards recruitment rewards, those you recruit must not have been an RNAO member or associate in the past two membership years. Associates like undergraduate nursing students and Friends of RNAO do not count toward the Get 5 complimentary membership offer.

Policy and Political Action Executive Network Officer

When nurses speak out on nursing, health, social, and environmental issues, they do so for patients, their family and friends, their colleagues, and themselves. Every day, registered nurses (RN), nurse practitioners (NP), and nursing students see the effect that healthy public policy can have on people's lives. We express our frustration about inefficient or outdated policies and voice our concerns about failings in the health and social services system, but what can we do about it? Who makes these policies in the first place? If these questions intrigue you, the position of an RNAO policy and political action ENO might be right for you.

RNAO believes RNs, NPs, and nursing students are well-positioned to advocate because they have the skills, expertise and experience to understand what the problems are and to recognize what needs to be done. Most importantly, RNs, NPs, and nursing students have a high level of credibility and trust with the public and can be relied upon to promote healthy public policy changes.

Our policy and political action ENOs are actively involved in political engagement with elected officials to press for policy changes. Having ENOs in each RNAO chapter, region without chapters and interest group is crucial to having our voice heard across Ontario. On an annual basis, RNAO hosts three opportunities to meet directly with MPPs: at Queen's Park Day in February, meeting over breakfast in the Legislative Dining Room; in nursing practice settings in May and June for Take Your MPP To Work; and in the MPPs' riding offices for Queen's Park on the Road in the fall. At each of these events, our ENOs share their stories about priority nursing, health, social, and environmental concerns and provide key recommendations on what needs to be done to bring about positive change. You are RNAO's local voices to mobilize change.

Our Policy and Political Action Executive ENO manual describes the roles and responsibilities of this position in greater detail and outlines the support provided by home office. The manual also contains a calendar of political engagement activities and the schedule of regular teleconference calls between the ENOs and home office.

For further information on the role, please contact Kyle Dieleman, Nursing and Health Policy Coordinator, at kdieleman@RNAO.ca or by phone at 416-408-5613 or 1-800-268-7199 ext. 214.

Student Liaisons

Student liaisons are undergraduate nursing students who play a leadership role within RNAO. While undergraduate nursing student membership in RNAO has grown remarkably, there are still many nursing students, especially those in year one and two, who are unfamiliar with the association's work. Student liaisons have the knowledge to provide pertinent RNAO information and connect their student colleagues with RNAO benefits and services.

Purpose of the Role

The student liaison role was created to assist RNAO in their recruitment and retention of undergraduate nursing students. Today's nursing students are the foundation of tomorrow's RNAO. Bringing students aboard early strengthens RNAO membership numbers and increases the likelihood that students will remain members throughout their careers. Robust membership numbers keep RNAO's voice strong and legitimate when speaking out for nursing and health care.

When representing RNAO, student liaisons are expected to:

- promote RNAO benefits, services, events and advocacy to nursing students at a school of nursing and elsewhere
- recruit undergraduate nursing students to RNAO and retain their membership support
- keep RNAO informed of membership issues, concerns and interests at a school of nursing

How Do Student Liaisons Do Their Job?

Student liaisons can promote RNAO membership and involvement by combining materials and resources from home office with their own individual creativity. The following activities have proven effective in increasing students' interest in RNAO and student membership numbers:

- distributing RNAO membership information to nursing students
- hosting an RNAO booth or table at a nursing school
- making RNAO part of orientation activities in September
- arranging presentations on RNAO
- collaborating with other students on promotional strategies
- linking nursing students to the local RNAO chapter
- encouraging faculty members to speak of RNAO's importance
- co-ordinating a school-wide RNAO membership drive

Benefits to Student Liaisons

Student liaisons, with support from RNAO Home Office, have the opportunity to develop and practice communication, organization, marketing and interpersonal skills. Their involvement with RNAO opens new doors through networking with other students and RNs. Student liaisons can also earn RNAO recruitment awards while gaining knowledge of the nursing and health-care sectors.

RNAO student liaisons may be part of a chapter or interest group executive or their RNAO involvement may be solely at their nursing school.

To get involved with the Student Liaison Program, contact Kenya Dames at kdames@RNAO.ca or 1-800-268-7199 ext. 201.

Workplace Liaisons

A workplace liaison knows that nursing is more than a job, more than putting in time. Nursing is about communication, knowledge, skill and acting as the strongest link in the chain.

Essentially, a workplace liaison acts as a representative of RNAO in a nursing workplace. This key person is in a position to enhance communications between RNAO and an organization's nurses. By way of improved communications, the workplace liaison program acts as a vehicle to promote the role of the RNs and NPs in the health-care system and to raise the profile of the association.

To find out more about the program, contact Ann-Marie Morris at amorris@RNAO.ca or 1-800-268-7199 ext. 220.

RNAO in Context

Workplace liaisons often get questions about how what we do compares with the roles of other nursing organizations.

There are four large groups that serve nurses in different ways.

Recruitment and Retention

Our guide Strategies for Member Recruitment & Retention, Myths and Realities of Member Recruitment and Six Secrets of Successful Recruiters (located in the Membership ENO Manual or <https://MyRNAO.ca/volunteer/workplace-liaisons>) can assist you in developing in your role as workplace liaison.

Workplace Liaison Program Structure

The workplace liaison role is to recruit and retain RNAO members by promoting RNAO benefits, services, and events to RNs, NPs, and undergraduate nursing students.

The workplace liaison ENO role is the same at the workplace liaison but this person is assigned to a particular chapter or region without chapters and is part of the chapter or region's executive team. As part of the chapter or region without chapters' executive, the workplace liaison ENO contributes to the leadership of the chapter or region without chapters by liaising with other workplace liaisons, as well as updating their chapter's or region without chapters' executives on the status and activities of the workplace liaisons in their local area.

The workplace liaison council meets via teleconference about three or four times a year. The council brings together perspectives of RNAO members from across Ontario to provide a vision to ensure success of the workplace liaison program in keeping with the mission, values and ENDS of RNAO. The council is charged with inspiring and driving educational offerings for workplace liaisons and supporting liaisons in the recruitment, retention and engagement efforts in their organizations.
